Intro

Sunday, August 14, 2022   10:00 AM

A request comes in your routes files which loads the necessary controller that corresponds to the URL. The controller then loads all the information necessary to provide a response. The view receives the data from controller and generates the html structure for the user.